

Nichole Schwarz
Estimator
Standard Drywall, Inc.

Introduced to the industry by happenstance, Nichole swiftly recognized her inherent connection to construction. Her childhood passion for building elaborate Lego fortresses served as an early indication of her future career path.

Her ascent has been both deliberate and organic, beginning her professional journey as a project administrator and has since held the positions of project engineer, project manager, and currently serves as an estimator.

An advocate for women's success both professionally and personally, Nichole holds a director position on the board for the National association of Women in Construction, San Francisco Bay Area Chapter.

With more than a decade of experience, Nichole has successfully overseen and estimated multimillion-dollar projects spanning various sectors. Driven by a commitment to integrity, Nichole approaches her endeavors with authenticity, understanding that integrity and alignment of purpose are fundamental to her success.